What is Ma(i)sonry Napa Valley?

Is it a fine arts gallery? Is it a contemporary showroom? Is it a collective wine gallery to sample and acquire premium wines? Is it a garden retreat for visitors and locals alike? Is it a lifestyle or private event destination for luxury purveyors?

Simply: yes.

While it is impossible to singularly define Ma(i)sonry Napa Valley, it is possible to define its sole purpose as “a life aesthetic.” Ma(i)sonry can best be described as a living gallery—a destination where guests can appreciate art and furnishings that encompass a variety of works from 16th century European craftsmen to contemporary artists and designers, all while savoring limited production, artisan wines. Based on individual taste, some guests will find Ma(i)sonry’s appeal in the modern lines of an Alexandra von Furstenberg console, and others, as a contemporary showroom where wine and art seamlessly intertwine, enhancing the sensory appeal of both.

Ma(i)sonry Napa Valley’s intimate setting is reminiscent of a private home or club, rather than an ordinary art gallery or tasting room. It showcases a rotating collection of wines from founding collective partners including Blackbird Vineyards, Captûre Wines, Casa Piena, Chester’s Anvil, Coup de Foudre, Entre Nous Wines, Fisher Vineyards, Hirsch Vineyards, Husic Vineyards, Juslyn Vineyards, Lail Vineyards, Ma(i)sonry Napa Valley, Pedras Wine Company, Pott Wine, R.A. Harrison Family Cellars, Recuerdo Wines, Renteria Wines, Rivera Vineyards, Skipstone, TOR Kenward Family Wines, Tuck Beckstoffer Wines, and Uvaggio. Ma(i)sonry’s portfolio of winery collective partners will continue to evolve, and will rotate throughout the year.

At Ma(i)sonry, guests have a variety of choices for their wine tasting experience—from one of three private rooms in the historic house or the outdoor gardens, which are landscaped around architectural remnants, contemporary sculpture and a stone fire pit. In addition, century-old olive trees frame a 36-foot long communal redwood table.

Ma(i)sonry Napa Valley currently features internationally renowned furnishings, art and designs from Ron Mann, Alexandra von Furstenberg, Hudson Furniture, and Citizen: Citizen, to name a few. Additionally, Ma(i)sonry offers vintage pieces by Eames, Louis Vuitton and Bertoia among other distinguished design collections. Rotating artist exhibitions and furnishings will evolve throughout the year.

With every collection created by the hand of an artist, artisan, or designer, Ma(i)sonry’s varied incarnations are each as richly textured as the other, celebrating life’s aesthetics...
